

Expanding Our Experience In The Environmental, Transactional, And Title Groups

Beatty & Wozniak, P.C. is pleased to welcome several new attorneys to our Denver office, greatly expanding our experience advising clients on environmental, transactional, and title issues:

Chris Colclasure joins us from the Colorado Department of Public Health and Environment, where he oversaw rulemakings, permitting, and enforcement as the Deputy Director of the Air Pollution Control Division. Prior to that, Chris worked in private practice litigating a wide range of environmental issues, including CERCLA, NEPA and the Clean Air Act. Chris remains an active member of the Air Force Reserve and practices public utilities law for the Judge Advocate General's Corps.

Diane O'Neil joined us from Black Hills Corp., representing them on both E&P and midstream areas. Previously, Diane worked in private practice in the energy and utilities industries, and has experience in legal issues from the wellhead to the downstream customer. Diane is licensed to practice in Wyoming and Colorado, and is a licensed patent attorney.

Craig Rowland brings to Beatty & Wozniak, P.C. over seven years' experience in title examination and analysis of property and mineral title ownership issues. Craig is licensed to practice in Colorado.

Meghan McGregor joins our title group as a recent graduate from the University of Denver Sturm College of Law. Prior to law school, Meghan worked for over five years as a title abstractor and team leader for a large energy-focused firm in West Virginia. Meghan is licensed to practice in Colorado.
